THE VERMONT NULLIFICATION ACT.

The Vermont Union Whig has the subjoined statement of the manner in which the act for nullifying the fugitive law passed the Legislature of Vermont. The facts here stated, and the remarks of the Union Whig and other papers, leave little doubt that the proceeding, in the Vermont Legislature, by which this act passed, was the result of a gross trick and imposition on the part of certain individuals, and that it will meet with no general sanction from the community.—It is certain that the proceeding meets with as decided disapprobation in Vermont and other States of New England, as any where else. The Boston Courier rightly characterizes the act as "foolish," and with manly justice says:

"It will be difficult to make the people of the South believe the New England States are desirous of preserving the Union, if the conduct of the Vermont Nullifiers receive any countenance or support here."

The following are the remarks of the Vermont Union Whig:

The Legislature of our hitherto much-respected State passed an act at its last session, intended by the mover to over rule the law of Congress respecting fugitives from labor. We have refrained from all allusion to this most unfortunate enactment, from mere chagrin and shame. It was whirled through the two Houses on the last day of the session, in the tempest of legislation which was concentrated into the closing hours—passed the several formalities of law-making without notice or remark. It is not strictly true to say that it was "ill-considered," for in strictest truth it was not considered at all.

For the substance and scope of the law no defence or excuse can be made. It attempts to repeal certain portions of the late law of Congress, IN TERMS; and instructs certain State officers and magistrates to treat that law, as to such portions of it, with utter disregard. This is not the treatment which the dignity or self-respect of Vermont should lead her to bestow upon the legislation of Congress. If the laws of Congress are unwise, or even unconstitutional, it is not for Vermont or any other State to nullify or repeal them. We have placed ourselves by this act in a position in which we have no defence against the judgment of the whole country. We were "thrice armed" when we "had our quarrel just." Why did we throw away our strength? The influence of Vermont was by no means inconsiderable upon this very subject of slavery. As a constitutional and conservative opponent of that evil institution, she was strong—as a pettish nullifier of the Constitution and the laws, she will become weak and contemptible indeed. In every view the passage of this act is deplorable.

The severity of condemnation which this mistep has drawn upon our State, from quarters where a wise man would be proudest of approval, is most painful to us. We had indulged the hope (a somewhat fond one we confess) that the act would sink at once into its appropriate oblivion. We encouraged that oblivion by the charity of our silence. The hope was a vain one. Let us be MILD for the present on South Carolina.

Having heard that it was rumored in some quarters that small pox was in this neighborhood, we have only to say that there is not the least shadow of truth in the report. Our authorities took great pains to guard against the disease, and this, no doubt, gave rise to the rumor that it was here. There is not, nor has there been, a single case in Anson county for several years.—N. C. Argus.

THE KNICKERBOCKER tells a story of a "one idea" Dutchman, who, in reply to a friend, remarked: why, Hans, you have the most feminine cast of countenance I have ever seen, said: "Oh, yaw, I know the reason for that; mine moder vas a voman."

A GREAT FIRM PROMOTED.—A law firm, a short time since, existed at Buffalo, as Fillmore, Hall & Haven" One of these gentlemen is now President of the U. States, another Postmaster General, and a third is just elected to Congress.

COTTON FOR THE GREAT FAIR.—A bale of cotton, intended for exhibition at the World's Fair, has reached New Orleans.—It is marked "S. Bond, Tennessee."

FATHER MATHEW.—This venerated apostle of temperance is preaching and lecturing on temperance at Pensacola. Great numbers were taking the pledge.

COMMUNICATIONS.

FOR THE REGISTER.

Mr. EDITOR: I have just read the comments of the Editor of the North Carolina Standard, on the Resolutions adopted at a meeting held in this county, on the 27th of last month, "composed of the friends of our National Union," in which he invites particular attention of the people of Rockingham to the 4th Resolution, and says, "whatever may be said of the other Resolutions, we have no idea that this Resolution will receive the endorsement of one citizen in fifty of that patriotic county." It surrenders every thing. It says to the free States, if you attempt to repeal what the Constitution gives us in so many words, we will regard you as "implacably hostile" towards "domestic slavery;" but we nevertheless "pledge ourselves to adhere most steadfastly to the Union, &c., with our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor." I was particularly struck with the word patriotic, for if the citizens of this county who composed that meeting, deserve the strictures which that Editor has thought proper to give them, they are certainly not, in his estimation, very patriotic, unless he considers them so very ignorant as not to understand the meaning of Resolutions which they adopt. But this, I suppose, is really the case, and he is so very charitable as to offer his services as an interpreter. He seems very confident that one citizen in fifty of this county will not endorse the Resolution. The Editor of the Standard is not always correct in his assertions, and I think this is one instance to the point; for those Resolutions were presented to the meeting (which numbered not less than three hundred) by four intelligent gentlemen (two Whigs and two Democrats,) and were adopted without a dissenting voice, and I have not seen the first man yet that is opposed to them—not even since their attention has been particularly called to one of them by the able and distinguished Editor above referred to.

Is the intepretation given of the 4th Resolution a fair one? By no means. It does not say that we pledge ourselves to stand by the Union, without the compromise measures, but with them.—"The Union, the fugitive slave law, and all other measures of adjustment"—that is the language used. The term "measures of adjustment" embraced the fugitive slave law, but I suppose the committee, to make it more forcible, thought proper to specify that. I cannot see what object the Editor of the Standard had in view, unless it was to gratify a little political malice by assailing John Kerr, who, he very uncourteously to the committee asserts, drew the Resolutions up. And if this was his object, it was a very unworthy one; for I think none but Demagogues desire to drag politics into the questions of slavery as they are now agitating the country. Who cares by whom those Resolutions were drawn up? and why should he transgress the bounds of courtesy to say that they were drawn up by John Kerr, and then assert that he is an unsafe leader for such stormy and portentous times as the present? If he thinks because Rockingham is democratic and John Kerr is a Whig, he is likely to gain any thing by such a course, I think he is mistaken; for though Rockingham differs with Mr. Kerr in politics, nevertheless the most of her citizens have confidence in him as a friend of the Union and the South. If we had thought proper to adopt him as our leader, we should not feel much disposed to throw him away and adopt Mr. Holden, although he gratuitously offers his services.

RAIL ROAD MEETING IN MILTON.

Agreeably to public notice, a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Milton and its vicinity, convened at Temperance Hall, on Thursday evening, the 19th of December, 1850.

The meeting was organized by calling James R. Callum, Intendant of Police, to the Chair, and appointing C. N. B. Evans and William M. Nance as Secretaries.

The objects of the meeting having been stated by the Chairman, it was addressed at some length by Nathaniel J. Palmer, Esq., on the importance and advantages of a Rail Road from Milton to connect with the Central Rail Road, about to be constructed from Goldsborough to Charlotte, N. C.; who offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That a delegation be appointed by this meeting to visit the City of Raleigh, and obtain, if practicable, from our Legislature, a Charter for a Rail Road on the most advantageous terms from Milton to connect with the North Carolina Central Rail Road, at the most convenient and eligible point.

Resolved, That our Senator and Representatives, in present General Assembly, be and they are hereby earnestly requested to use their best efforts to obtain this Charter, the same being an object in which the citizens of the whole county are deeply interested.

The Resolutions having been read, were unanimously adopted by the meeting.

The following Delegates were then appointed, John Kerr, Esq, Richard J. Smith, Esq., M. McGehee, Esq., Dr. N. M. Bren, N. J Palmer and J. B. Barrett, Esq.

On motion the name of the Chairman of the Meeting was added to the Delegation.

On motion, Resolved, that the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the Chairman and Secretaries and published in the Milton, Greensborough, Hillsborough and Raleigh papers.

The Meeting then adjourned.

LOCATION OF THE RAIL ROAD.

MR. EDITOR:

It is understood that the Central Rail Road is to be located at an early day, between Goldsborough and Raleigh, and the route over which it will pass, is as likely to be through a barren tract of country above the town of Smithfield, as any other place. If so, this will be a most egregious blunder. There is no mistake about the fact, that immediately through the town of Smithfield is the best route that can possibly be selected; it is as good and as level ground, or perhaps better, than any other that can be selected, and only a few steps further than a straight line; and by going through the town, the road would get a considsiderable amount of support, that it would never get three or four miles off. But it is not the support of the town alone, that I have reference to. It is the central position of the road through this whole destitute section of country as regards lines of conveyance. By going above the town, the road is brought too near the other roads, and too far from a large section of country lying on the south-west side of the town, out of the reach of all regular lines of transportation.—The writer has on hand, 1200 barrels of freight lying waiting to be conveyed off, all of which the road would get, if it run through Smithfield; but his position is such, that he can hardly afford to haul to Smithfield, and he could never go three or four miles beyond that place to get to the road. Similarly situated is a large section of Johnston County, containing more freight than any other portion of the County.

The Towns should be regarded—the people are unwilling to give up their old seats of trade—the public roads all run to them—the bridges are all constructed with reference to them, and the people have a habit of going to them—these things would all have a beneficial effect with the Rail road, if it runs by the towns. The Wilmington and Weldon Company found that they had injured themselves very much, by running their Rail Road through the country, without noticing the villages near which it was passing. It did not get near the support it would have gotten; and a number of strong enemies were created by the people's being injured by the depreciation of their property in towns.

A most striking illustration of the beneficial effects of going through the towns and villages with Rail Roads, is seen between New York and Philadelphia. The Camden and Amboy Rail Road was built straight through, without regard to the towns on the way, and the consequence was, that another road was soon built through Jersey State, between the same two points, taking in its course all the little towns, viz: Princeton, Bristol, Trenton, Rothway, Elizabeth Town, New Brunswick, Newark, Jersey City, and others; and this road far out-stripped the other; so much so, that the Company soon bought out the other road, and it is now amongst the most profitable stock in the United States, as well as one of the most useful roads to the Public.

SMALL POX.

We are requested by some friends in Rowan, to contradict the statement that has appeared in certain quarters, and, more particularly, in the "Ralegh Star," of the 24th inst., that the Small Pox is, or has been, either in that County or the Town of Salisbury. This virulent disease is prevailing, we are concerned to saate, in some of the Western Counties; and if, unfortunately, it should reach Salisbury, prompt notice of the fact will be given in the "Watchman." At present, however, says our immediate informant, "Rumor is entirely too fast."

☞ The Communication over the signature of a ROCKINGHAM DEMOCRAT, in another column, is what it purports to be. It comes from one of the most decided Democrats in that strong-hold of Democracy.—We commend it to the attentive consideration of the "Standard."

It is reported that Horace Greely, editor of the New York Tribune, will be a candidate for United States Senator. Editors are looking up, or rather being appreciated.—Asheville News.

[We trust that HORACE GRETELRY may never be so far "appreciated," as to be elected to a seat in the United States Senate!]

CENSUS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

We are enabled, through the politeness of Col. LITTLE, U. S. Marshall, to present below the increase of population, since the last decennial enumeration, in 36 Counties in the State—not quite one half the whole number.

It will be observed that the aggregate increase of the Counties named is 49,868. It is proper, however, to call attention to the fact, that the larger number of these Counties are Eastern Counties—in which section the increase in population has not been so decided as in the West.

From the complexion of these returns, we think it certain that North Carolina will lose two members of Congress. Assuming the population of the Country to be at present, as is generally calculated, 23,000,000, and there being 233 members of the House of Representatives, the apportionment for each member will, of course, be 100,000. According to present indications, the White population of the State, under the present Census, will number (as near as we are warranted in calculating) about 550,000; Slaves 290,000; Free persons of color 35,000. In 1840, (in round numbers) Whites 480,000, Slaves 245,000, and Free colored persons 30,000. Adding to the White population, in 1850, "three-fifths," &c., we have, as the Federal Population, 745,000—entitling us to but seven Members of Congress.

The entire population of the State will not vary far from 875,000.

We must confess that the result is not altogether unexpected to us. We have not been inattentive observers of the stream of emigration which has poured through our borders, and carried along its tide many of our best and most respectable citizens. We lament this, not so much that it has shorn us of our political strength and power but on account of the gap it has too often made in the social and family circle and on account of the destitution which has caused it. We firmly believe, however, that a better day is coming for North Carolina and that richer prospects are before her. Let us but resolve to improve the advantages and develop the resources, which Nature has given our State, and we need never hereafter shrink from any comparison, whether of population, resources, or the means of comfort and happiness, with the most favored of our sister Confederates.

nd first reading.

Mr. Jones, from the Committee on Propositions and Grievances, reported the bill to lay off and establish a new County by the name of Williams, and recommended its rejection. Rejected—ayes 19, noes 80.

The Speaker then announced that the hour had arrived for taking up the special order, it being the bill to amend the constitution of N. C.

On motion of Mr. G. Hayes, the special order was postponed for half an hour, and the House proceeded to consider the bill to provide relief for the purchasers of Cherokee lands.

Mr. Rayner withdrew the amendment last offered by him to the bill, and moved to re-consider the vote by which the other amendments had been adopted. He said that he had been charged with opposing this bill because it was a western measure; and he was unwilling to occupy this odious position. The money arising from the source has been appropriated to building a road in the west; and if those interested in it do not think proper to make these amendments, he would not trouble himself farther. The principle of the b was wrong; he had not changed his opinion on that subject—but he would not offer any more amendments.

After a few remarks from Mr. Hayes, the question was taken on the motion to reconsider, and it prevailed. Mr. R. then withdrew his amendments.

The question then recurring on the passage of the bill on its 2nd reading,

Mr. Fleming moved to amend by striking out the clause authorising the County Court of Cherokee to appoint a commissioner to value the land; which was agreed to.

Mr. Walton then offered the amendment which was rejected on Saturday, viz: to provide for refunding in Cherokee lands to those who have paid an amount above the valuation; which was rejected by a vote of ayes 35, nays 64.

The question was then taken on the passage of the bill, and it was rejected—ayes 50 nays 51.

Mr. Winston moved to reconsider the vote by which this bill was rejected, and then moved to to lay this motion on the table, which was agreed to.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The bill to amend the Constitution of North Carolina, was taken up.

Mr. Caldwell, of Guilford, being entitled to the floor, proceeded to address the House.

Mr. Person, of Moore, took the floor and said that he desired to address the House on this subject, but did not feel well enough to proceed at this stage of the discussion. He would move to postpone until 12 o'clock to-morrow, unless some other gentleman desired to address the House at the present time.

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, the farther consideration of the subject was postponed until 3 o'clock, P. M.

On motion of Mr. R. M. Saunders, the resolutions on the subject of slavery were taken up, amended by general consent, and made the order of the day for Thursday next.

The House then took a recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Waugh gave notice that he would, on to-morrow, introduce a resolution to terminate the debate on the bill to amend the Constitution, at 1 o'clock on that day.

Mr. Brogden, of Wayne, then addressed the House on the bill to amend the Constitution, taking grounds in favor of the original bill and in opposition to a Convention. When he had concluded,

Mr. Steele, of Richmond, took the floor. He said he believed our Constitution was the best in the world, and he was willing to live under it as it is, until the Arch Angel's last trump shall sound. He argued against legislative amendments, and in favor of amending by a Convention—giving as a strong case in point, the manner in which the bill before the House had been argued. The question, is the proposed amendment right? had not been argued at all. The only questions thus far discussed were, are the people in favor of the amendment? and in what manner shall it be done? Mr. S. was in favor of submitting the question to the people, to say whether they desired any change in the Constitution, and if they desire a change, he wished it to be done by a Convension.

Mr. Person, of Moore, made a motion to adjourn, but withdrew it; when

Mr. R. M. Saunders introduced a resolution to terminate the debate on this question at 4 o'clock to-morrow, only allowing 5 minutes to any gentleman offering an amendment to explain it.

After three ineffectual motions to adjourn, and a motion to lay on the table, upon which the ayes and noes were called, and after some more discussion, without the vote being taken.

The House at length adjourned.

MR. WEBSTER.

The recent speeches of Mr. Webster at the Pilgrim Dinner and at the City Hall, in New York, suggest, what has doubtless occurred to many minds, that as he advances in age his imagination seems to acquire freshness, freedom, and vigor. When he delivered his Bunker Hill oration, in 1824, an old Revolutionary soldier sat near by and devoured every sentence. After it was over, he said to a companion: "That was good; I declare every word seemed to weigh a pound." This anecdote reached England, and was pronounced by the London Times to be highly descriptive of that solemn, massive, convincing style of eloquence peculiar to Mr. Webster. Without losing any of his characteristic force, chasteness, and simplicity of style—for the last few years, his speeches have been embellished by frequent passages of touching pathos, brilliant imagery, and elegant poetic fancy. The following instance occurs in his speech at the New York dinner, above alluded to:

"Gentlemen, there is the Mayflower, (pointing to a small figure of a ship in confectionary that stood before him.) There is a little resemblance, but a correct one, of the Mayflower. Sons of New England! there was, in ancient times, a ship that carried Jason to the acquisition of the Golden Fleece. There was a flag-ship at the battle of Actium which made Augustus Cæsar master of the world. In modern times there have been flag-ships which have carried Hawkins, and Howe, and Nelson on the other continent, and which have carried Hull, and Decatur, and Stewart on this, to triumph. What are they all—what are they all, in their chance of remembrance among men—to that little bark, the Mayflower, which reached these shores? Yes, my brethren of New England, that Mayflower was a flower of perpetual bloom! [Cheers.] Its verdure stands the sultry blasts of summer, and the chilling winds of autumn. It will defy all climates and all time, and it will continue to expand its petals to the world, and exhale an ever-living odor and fragrance to the 'latest syllable of recorded time.'"

Such passages as these—in which Mr. Webster's speeches abound—will never die. They are true and beautiful for all times.—They will sink into the heart, be cherished in the memory, and repeated by the lip, when other words fail to give adequate expression to the promptings of patriotism.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Legislature of this State has adjourned. It was composed of 68 planters, 43 lawyers, 10 physicians, 3 merchants, and not a single merchanic of any kind.

Stop the Runaway.

ON Thursday, the 26th, my boy ABE left my house as I supposed to take Christmas, a day or two, but have since found out that a white woman from my neighborhood has disappeared, and it is believed that they have both gone off together, or that she has taken him away under the pretence that he is her slave. The woman had a child some 12 months ago by this same boy, and from all circumstances connected, I have no doubt but she has taken him off.

The woman is about 28 years old, light hair, bony face, to crably light eyes and has rather a down look, and weighs about 130 pounds. She is supposed to be in the family way at this time. Her name is Mary King, but what name she will assume is unknown.

Abe is about 5 feet 10 inches high, weighs about 160 or 165, has a scar on one of his hands next to his thumb caused by the bite of a hog; he is a black negro and well built, about 30 years old, his front teeth will give way by pressing them, and some two or three of them entirely gone. Sundry articles in the way of clothing, amongst which were a black cloth sack coat, a checkered gingham coat, one pair blue cassimere pants, with red stripes, one pair blue checked pants, and wore off a black silk Hat.

I will give a reward of twenty five dollars to any person that will arrest the said boy Abe and confine him in any Jail within this State or I will give a reward of one hundred dollars for the apprehension and confinement of said boy if taken without the State and the same reward will be given for the arrest and confinement of the said Mary King, if taken up beyond the limits of this State, if found in Company with the boy,

Patent Fire Proof Paint.

☞ This most singular substance, in a few months after applied, turns to Slate or Stone, forming a complete coat of Mail, protecting whatever is covered from the action of Fire and Weather. It has now been tested more than six years and shows that TIME and the ELEMENTS only seem to indurate or harden the substance; it seems to be a perfect desideratum for all outside painting that has for centuries been sought in vain. For all descriptions of buildings, either Brick, Wood, or roofs of Wood or Metal, there is nothing equal to it. So highly are its Fire proof qualities appreciated in Akron, Ohio, where it is best known, that all the Insurance Companies have published that they will Insure Buildings well covered with it at a much lower premium than those covered with Tin or Zinc, as it has been tried in several fires there and stood much longer than either. For Rail Road Depots Bridges, Steamboat and Car decks, for all kinds of Iron, it forms a coating nearly as hard as the Iron itself and never cleaves off.
